In the Harz there was once an incorrigible deer-stealer. Whenever he knew that a head of game was anywhere to be had, it was no longer safe. He had heard that in Little Clausthal, at the hour of midnight, on Good Friday, a roe with her fawn appeared, which no one dared to shoot; but he only laughed at the superstitious tale; and one day, just before Easter, being in a jovial company, and the conversation turning on the roe of Little Clausthal, he declared his disbelief of the whole story, and turned it into ridicule, saying: Who will wager that I don t shoot both the roe and her fawn, and have them for dinner on the first Easter-holiday? The company strove to dissuade him from the attempt, but in vain; so on the Good Friday night he took his way to Little Clausthal. On reaching the pond he observed a thick mist hanging over it, which reached to the sky, and completely concealed the pond. In the mist he heard sounds like the voices of many persons whispering together, and strange forms seemed, from time to time, to issue from it. Along the road also many forms glided like unsubstantial shadows, all of which vanished in the mist that hovered over the pond; but he augured no evil. He crossed over and stationed himself at the end of the valley, behind a bush. Exactly at the time there came...
